Campaign Begins For New Campus

Freshman class may be first to graduate from new school

As students whirled through a pre-registering campaign among the voters of Santa Ana and waited for the announcement from the executive board of the Associated Students of further plans to help put over the Junior College Bond Issue on October 30, it was pointed out by Director John H. McCoy that the present freshman class may be the first to use the new buildings.

Under the preliminary planning for the building program, the campus project would get under way sometime in February and the first buildings might be completed a year later.

Ready in '47

The current freshmen would thus have a chance to use the completed structures for graduation purposes in 1947!

Students, aided by faculty members who furnished their cars, worked Wednesday and Thursday night in canvassing the city voters, urging all to sign up for the right to vote.

Ring doorbells in almost every block, the students presented mimeographed sheets informing the residents where they could find registration booths in case they were not already registered voters.

Many Voters Needed

The registration campaign was conducted because it was felt that a large number of votes would be necessary to help carry the proposition by the two-third majority.

Faculty members stated that the students received a good response to their appeals, and Director McCoy stated that he had had several telephone calls from citizens of the community expressing their approval of the student interest and support of the college project.

Committee Elected

A faculty committee was recently elected to help Director McCoy to coordinate the various campus projects in the coming election campaign. Miss Dorothy Decker was named to head the committee, assisted by Miss Genevieve Humiston, registrar, and Ernest (Continued on page three)

Y-club leads off in organizing for new year's work

Marking itself as the first service club to organize this year, the Junior College YMCA will hold its first meeting next Wednesday at 7:30 a.m. in the local Y.

The business of the first meeting will be to choose a secretary-treasurer for the organization. Present officers are Dick Nelson, president, and Bill Tolin, vice-president, with Arch Raitt serving as club adviser for the campus group and specializing as chief cook for all the members.

Membership, now drafted down to a mere half-dozen, is open to all men who hold Associated Student tickets. Anyone wishing to join should first see one of the officers, as an invitation is necessary.

Activities of the group include the breakfast every other Wednesday before class, beach parties, and supporting a candidate for the Don of the Year.

Faculty plans 'Rec' nite

Fun is in store for the students of Santa Ana jaycee the evening of September 28, according to Ernest C. Phillips, dean of men. For on that date, the faculty will sponsor a "Rec Night," so called because it will consist of a program of recreational activities. The event will be held at Lincoln school, from 8 to 11 p.m.

Prexy asks for student support

I am proud to welcome you for the second time, but this time rather than a welcome I am asking a favor.

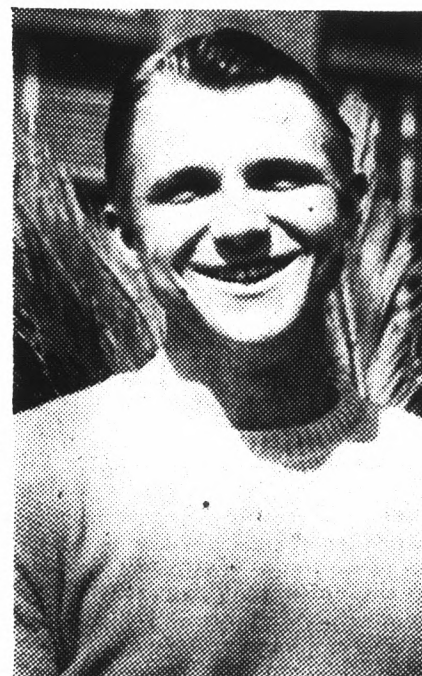

First I would like to explain the working function of our student government. The president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer are elected each semester and they in turn appoint as many commissioners as they see fit. The commissioners are what you might call the presidential cabinet as compared to our Federal government. The elected officers, with the commissioners, form what is called the executive board. They meet each week and decide the activities of the college.

My first favor is that every student help promote the new campus.

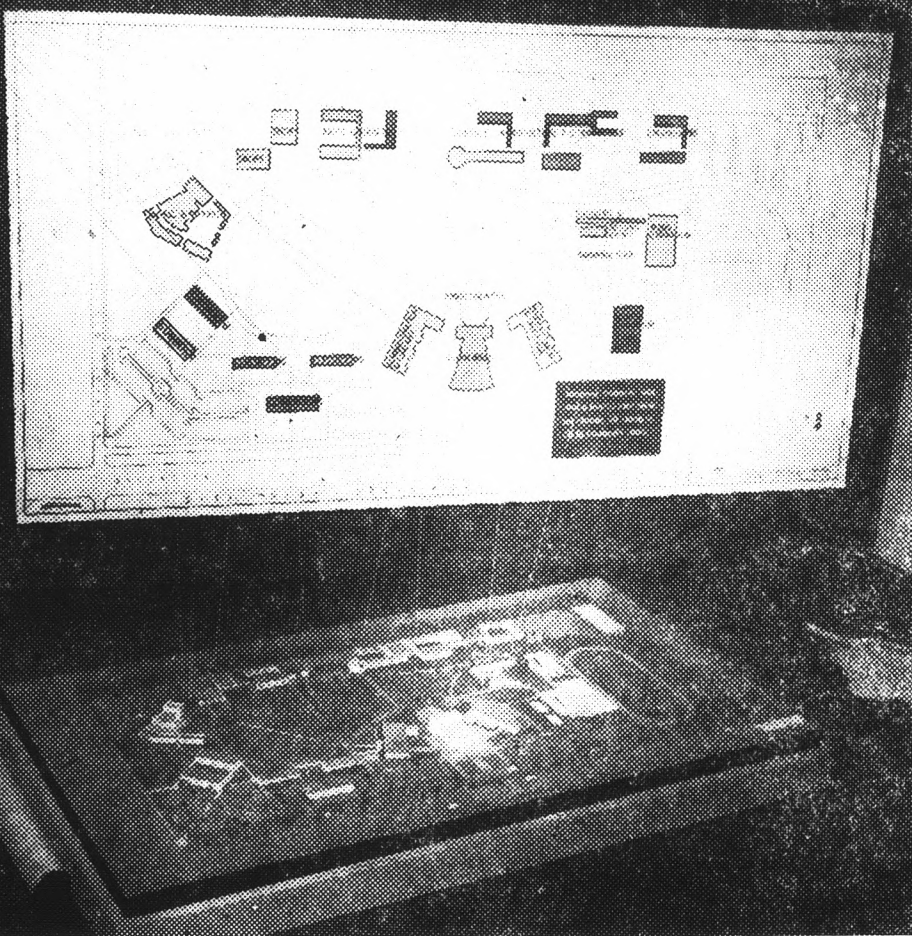

My other favor is that any student with suggestions concerning social, athletic, or other activities, present them to the executive board.

Remember that the college is what YOU make of it—and not the executive board.

Local draft board receives no ruling as yet on change to permit men to remain in school

Local draft board officials have not yet received any official communications from Washington concerning a radio report heard Tuesday night that students now in college would be permitted to complete the semester for which they had enrolled, regardless of their current draft standings.

McCoy welcomes students to campus

"We are happy to welcome more than 200 freshmen to junior college, and hope that you will take advantage of all the educational opportunities offered here," stated director of the junior college, John H. McCoy, in a salutation today to incoming students.

"Although the college has been severely handicapped as a result of depleted enrollment because of the war situation, we are looking forward to better days with the start of this new year," he continued.

"We hope you will become well acquainted with campus conditions and inform your friends, parents and relatives as to why they should vote October 30 for adequate college facilities.

"Please make it a point to drop in to the director's office at your earliest convenience in order that we may become acquainted.

The story heard by many of the men students has created a furor of rumors on the campus. Some students have hope that they will be able to continue with their college education, feeling that by February Congress may take some action to halt drafting.

Immediate reaction on the campus, if the official ruling follows soon, will be to relieve Coach Bill Cook of the football worries that he faced last year. No longer will key athletes be taken away from the squad on the eve of crucial games.

College enrollment is also expected to remain higher than it did last year when most of the men were called from their classes before February.

The Selective Service ruling states that college men will be permitted to finish the semester they are enrolled in if their grades are satisfactory.

School officials suggest that students make further inquiry regarding their status about two weeks from now.

Let's Build for Tomorrow

In the 1939 campaign for a Junior College, the student body at the time staged a downtown parade to impress the voters on the need for a new campus. The above picture shows the marchers in action.

In 1938 the students of the college helped put on a campaign that came within the narrow margin of 263 votes of building a new junior college in Santa Ana.

These students worked hard and as the above picture demonstrates even in 1939 participated in down-town parades, rallies, and other projects to further the central drive.

The present student body has been asked to help in one project so far: the pre-registration canvas. The response was good, but El Don believes that it could have been even better!

Every student on this campus will be asked again to aid in this drive. You will be needed . . . badly!

CAN WE COUNT ON YOU!

Lost! Four Million Dollars

In the past ten years the city of Santa Ana has lost $4,000,000. This is the money that would have been spent here if the plan for a new jaysee had been carried out when it was first proposed.

On the assumption that every local student spends at least $15 a month and every out of state student $40 a month, there is no doubt that, with a new campus, $400,000 would have been spent in Santa Ana every year. A new college, such as the one proposed, could easily accommodate 2000 students.

In the past the arguing and bickering has been due largely, not to whether there should be a new plant or not, but to comparatively minor details, such as cost and location. Several sites have been suggested, but there has always been enough opposition to delay and postpone until the projects were abandoned entirely.

At the polls on October 30, Santa Ana will again be given a chance to provide a college campus befitting a city of this size. There have already been too many delays. Opportunity knocks until its knuckles are sore, and no one answers. The majority of votes cast in favor of a new Santa Ana junior college must be complete and overwhelming. We must not fail!—D.M.

Placement bureau open; offers aid to students wanting work

Need a job? Students needing part-time jobs are advised to fill out an application blank and get an interview with Neevil Helm, placement counselor, as soon as possible.

Mr. Helm warns, however, that students should not try to carry a full program and work outside at the same time. "You can't do justice to your work or your studies," he admonishes.

Job to Suit Student

After students have applied for work and have been interviewed, the Placement Service finds a job suited to the student's situation and arranges an interview between the student and his prospective employer.

The Placement Service endeavors to find the best job possible to fit the applicant's ability and school schedule.

... Old Grads

Major Russell W. Tarvin, graduate of Santa Ana Junior college, has recently been chosen for duty with the United States Group Control Council, air division, in Berlin. The former assistant air inspector at Second Air Force Headquarters, Colorado Springs, Colorado is believed to be the first to be selected from Second Air Force for such an assignment, according to a recent army news release.

A veteran of over four years of service, the former B-24 bomber pilot wears the Distinguished Flying Cross with one Oak Leaf Cluster, the Air Medal, as well as the Pacific and American Theater ribbons.

While attending jaysee, Tarvin was a member of Los Gauchos; Delta Psi Omega, dramatic fraternity; and the school band. He is a native of Orange where he completed high school studies.

TWO LIEUTENANTS

Second Lt. Edward Jefferson Haynes, Fullerton, and William Eugene, Sandon Santa Ana, both Santa Ana junior college alumni, were commissioned as pilots in the Army Air Forces September 8, at Alamo Army Air Field, Victoria, Texas, according to a recent Army news release.

Higher education seems to beckon to many of the graduation class of June 1945.

Many Don grads have decided to favor SAJC with their presence for another year. Among those who are taking post-graduate courses are: Geneva Eden, Mary Olive Tozier, and Laura Landrum who has added McKee to her name since last June.

A few students have forsaken Southern California to go north, as did Margaret Griset who is now at the University of California at Berkeley. Gertrude Kinzey has journeyed to Fredericksburg, Virginia, to complete her education at Washington College.

Dons and Donas at USC are: Frank Devenney, Clara Shirley Miller, and Arthur Schunck. UCLA has claimed Elizabeth Baker, Florence Fainbarg, Mary Harding, Iris Iverson, and June Miles.

A brief history: THE BATTLE FOR A CAMPUS

By DON McDANIEL

Bob Swanson, editor of El Don in 1936, made one of the initial moves to secure a new jaysee campus when he urged Santa Ana to try to acquire government funds for the project. His editorial, which appeared in El Don in December, 1936, stated that the college had outgrown its present site.

Nothing constructive was done, however, until September 1938, when the government was ready to donate $315,000, if Santa Ana voters would endorse $385,000 bond issue. The total cost of the new campus would have been $700,000, and it would have provided adequate facilities to accommodate 1500 students.

Plans Drawn Up

Plans were drawn up for six new buildings. They included an administration and classroom structure, library, commerce and home economics building, combined gymnasium and auditorium, science building, and shop. The bond issue was defeated, when it failed by 263, the necessary two-thirds majority vote.

After the defeat of the bond issue, 1200 Santa Ana voters signed petitions and cards asking the board of education to put the issue to another vote. The board, however, delayed its decision indefinitely, since there was no further assurance of financial aid from the government.

New Drive in 1939

In May 1939 the drive for a new campus was reopened when Gloria Kirchner, then editor of El Don, wrote an editorial in the form of an open letter to the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce asking that group as a progressive organization to aid the students in their effort to acquire a new college plant. Several local organizations then joined with the Junior Chamber of Commerce in demanding that something be done about the situation.

In October 1939 representatives of all Orange County high schools met to discuss the possibility of moving the present plant to one of the beach cities. The meeting was called by the Santa Ana Board of Education, and Dr. H. J. Howard presided.

Formation of a new junior college district at that time would have included, in addition to Santa Ana, the following high schools: Tustin, Orange, Garden Grove, Huntington Beach, Laguna, Newport Beach, and San Juan Capistrano.

Morgan Halts Plan

In February 1940 state education officials outlined the necessary steps in the formation of an Orange County College Union. These steps were:

- (1) A petition requesting annexation to the junior college to be signed by a majority of the heads of families in each district and presented to the county superintendent of schools.
- (2) The approval of each district board of education to form the union must be tendered to the superintendent.
- (3) The superintendent must transfer the petition and school board decisions to the county supervisor who will make the final decision of the project.

The Student Speaks

By DICK SMITH

Probably the issue of most importance to the average male student is the continuation of the draft, especially the teen-age draft. The prospects are good that the draft will continue, at least for awhile. Congress seems pretty well satisfied to let the Draft Law run out.

Of course there are some Congressmen who are a little dissatisfied with the demobilization and draft picture. There are claims that the Army is keeping men in unnecessarily, and recent reports of G.I.'s cutting grass seems to bear this out. It is reported that millions of men are sitting in camps with nothing to do, and with little chance that they will be needed for occupation duties.

Cut Occupation Force

Recently, General MacArthur stated that the occupation of Japan was so successful that only 200,000 men would be necessary to do the job. President Truman added that a similar cut in the German Occupation forces is expected.

We wonder why, then, the teen age draft should be continued? There is no question that the men who have done the fighting should come home, and come home as soon as there are ships to bring them back. There's no arguing on that point.

BUT . . . What about the men between 21-26 who have finished school and have no families? They are adult citizens of the country, and a tour of duty would in most cases be but a minor interruption in their careers. It would seem that this force of men, together with the volunteers could do the job, and the 18 and 19-year-olds would be free to finish their education, and prepare to give service to their nation and the world in the trying times of the Post-War era.

MacArthur and Japs

And then there are those critics that think that General MacArthur is being soft on the Japs, and believe the Emperor should be dethroned. Well, it would seem that General MacArthur knows how to deal with Japs better than his arm-chair critics, because he's fought them, and has demonstrated beyond doubt his ability to deal with the Japs.

As for those that demand the dethronement of the Emperor: The New Republic, a liberal weekly journal asks: "How are we to trust in the abolition of militarism, the renunciation of aggressive intentions, the installation of democracy as long as the core of the old regime remains in power?"

Well, who is the old regime? The Emperor has been a tool of the militarists, or any other government in power for the last 60 or 70 years. He is not a dictator. In the 1930's, the Liberals, who were in favor of democracy and peace, were defeated in a bloody revolution in which the militarists seized power. They have run the show in Japan since that time, and when they are cleaned out, the way will be paved for a democratic nation.

Removal of the Emperor or our part would be breaking the surrender pact, since we guaranteed that the Japanese people will have the final say. Hirohito is a puppet, no more, and has proved useful to us, and will be useful to a democratic government, in much the same way that George VI of England is useful to that government.

Atom Bomb

There's the question of who should have control of the atomic bomb? Some say the United States should keep exclusive control. Others say the U.S. and England should share control. It is pointed out that the scientists of all of the big powers are working on the atomic bomb secret, and that sooner or later they will discover it. We are reminded, also, that whoever has the secret of the atomic bomb incurs the suspicion of the world, which many will grant is not a healthy condition.

John Duke . . . Journalism Prof

Neevil Helm . . . Job Getter

Mrs. Hilda Johnston . . . Parle Vous Francais?

Duke, Johnston, Helm added to Jaysee faculty

New faces other than those of the frosh can be seen around the campus this year. Three new instructors, Mr. John H. Duke, Miss Hilda Johnston, and N. W. Helm, have helped to ease the faculty shortage.

Mr. Duke received his Bachelor of Journalism degree at the University of Texas and a Master of Arts degree from USC. He served on the faculty of Santa Ana High school for three years as English and journalism instructor. He will teach the same subjects at Jaysee and will also head the College News Service.

Mrs. Johnston, a native of England, received her education in France and later in London. She came to the United States after the last war. Mrs. Johnston will teach French at Santa Ana.

Mr. Helm is a returning member of the regular faculty. He joined the faculty four years ago, but the following years taught at the high school and also held night school courses at the Jaysee. Mr. Helm, counselor for commercial students, will teach in that division and serve as head of the campus Placement Bureau.

Mrs. Shirley Bradisse has been named to instruct in the department of physical education.

Campus library lays down rules for student use of books

Approximately fifteen-thousand books line the shelves of the Santa Ana Jaysee library in College Hall and recently information was issued concerning the procedure and use of the rooms and volumes.

The library remains open daily, except Saturday and Sunday, from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. and Wednesday evening from 6:30 until 8:30 for student convenience.

Check Books Out

If books are taken out at any time they first must be checked through the circulation desk. Books in the general collection may be borrowed for one or two weeks and are due on the date stamped in the front of the book. Special reserve books, designated by a red card in the pocket, may be taken at 2:00 and are due at 9:00 the following morning. The bound magazines are for reference use only and do not circulate.

A fine of five cents a period or 25 cents a day will be charged on all overdue special reserve books, while a two cents a day fine will be imposed on all other overdue books.

The library is divided into three reading rooms with each section holding certain types of books. In the General Reading room (206) may be found the card catalog, information file, picture file, current periodicals, local newspapers, and books numbered 000-829.

The Reference room contains the reference books, encyclopedias, dictionaries, indexes, etc. which are for library use only; foreign language books numbered 430-499 and 830-899; fiction; and special exhibits.

Room 204 is the Periodical room and contains all reserve books; books numbered 900-999, biography, travel, and history; back files of all bound and unbound periodicals; out-of-state newspapers, displays of books; Readers Guide; and the charging desk.

STUDENT PREXY HEADS RETURNEES

Returning veterans of the campus are headed by Student Body President Stanley Gorzuchowski who spent eight months in the army.

There are eight other veterans on the campus at the present time, they are Keith Naylor, navy; Bob Adams, army; Bob Fletcher, marines; Bill Flannagan and Bob Childs, navy; Captain Jessie Hayes now in the process of getting out; Bill Klenck, navy, and Gene Cairns, army.

DIRECTORY READY SOON

A student directory giving names and addresses of all junior college students and faculty members will be completed and ready for distribution near November 1, according to John H. Duke, instructor of journalism.

The directory will be free to Associated Student members.

Final action on the directory will not be taken, however, until Tuesday when the Executive Board of the Associated Students meets.

Frosh prefer slings to Beanies after signing away lives

In the opinion of many of the freshman students it would be far more appropriate to give red and black slings to them instead of the usual beanies.

After the maze of stations, passes, schedules, cards, and catalogs, there were some students who ended up wondering just which classes they were signed up for. There were so many befuddled students around the campus that even some of the experienced Dons became confused.

Some of the comments heard were: "O-O-Oh, my aching arm," "How come ya' gotta' take Orientation?", "I hate P.E.!" These were a few of the mild ones.

Thursday and Friday the same students tried valiantly to find their classes and to be there reasonably close to the time it was scheduled.

Calm descended on the campus by Monday however, and many happy freshmen who now "know it all" are becoming more and more imbued with the spirit of Santa Ana Junior College.

More on Bonds

C. Phillips, dean of men. John Duke, news service director, was added to the committee to aid with publicity.

At the present moment campaign workers are still waiting for the Board of Education to announce how much money the people of the city will be asked to vote for the purpose of building the campus.

Present plans call for a structure that will provide facilities for 2,500 students and would cost approximately $1,600,000. It is understood that the board may ask that only $989,600 be voted at the present time. This amount would permit the construction of the most urgently needed buildings so that the college could change to a new campus more quickly.

Dons Will Play This Year

Twenty-seven sign up for current season

That Santa Ana JC will field a football squad this year seems to be pretty much of a certainty after a wild week of wondering on the part of the student body and most everyone else.

Twenty-seven potential grid candidates showed up for last Friday's meeting with Coach Bill Cook, but many who had signed up or had intended to do so were not present. At the opening practice, last Wednesday, it appeared that the Dons would be able to field three good teams.

Eastern Foes

Coach Cook revealed, however, that competition in the Western conference would be a little too stiff for the local boys this year, as such colleges as Glendale were busy welcoming some 400 returning GI's to their campuses, while there are only a little better than 60 men in Santa Ana JC. Instead, he disclosed the Dons would have to be satisfied with battling the Eastern division teams, Riverside, Chaffey, San Bernardino, and Fullerton, as no chances are going to be taken with regard to personal welfare.

The Dons will also mix with Long Beach JC in a game which may open the season, and possibly Pasadena and some one of the smaller service elevens. There is also the possibility of home-and-home tangles with the Eastern divisioners if other blank spots on the schedule do not work out.

Twenty With Experience

Twenty of the group that met last Friday have had previous experience with the porkhide. Four men: Bill Neth, guard; Bill Flanagan, halfback; "Turk" Dennis, guard; and Chuck Grow, guard, are reported as returning from last year's eleven. Frosh students for the squad include former Saint regulars Ronald Blackwell, tackle; Horace Snow, center; Roscoe Dietrich, half; and Don Miller, back, and Don Vaughn, end, from Newport Harbor; halfback Gene Scarbrough, of Orange; Keith Derrill, guard from Georgetown, Texas, and Carl Romer, marine dischargee, full.

Others signing up Friday were Charles Nash, Orange; Don Kelchner, Bill Scott, Keith Naylor, Wendell Losh, Ronald Schroeder, Warren Danielson, Elvin Milbrat, Jack Craven, Jack Stanley, and Gene Cairns of Santa Ana; Donald Davis and Arnold Metzgar of Olds, Iowa, and Eugene Quarry of Newport Harbor.

Football will bring need for song and yell leaders

Potential song and yell leaders who are anxious to prance and dance before a hysterical crowd may now begin to tone up their throat muscles in anticipation of the coming football season.

As the gridiron picture becomes brighter, those interested in such positions may look forward to tryouts.

Don Sport Talk

By DICK REISH

Since so many of the students don't know who the Dons even play in a season's time, here's a resume of last year's scores. Strangely enough, they always held the lead until the final quarter and then would lose by a narrow margin. They did, however, dump the Modesto Pirates after that squad had won the state crown.

torso he decided that I might be better suited to carry the towels. O, well, I wanted to be manager, anyway.

Do you know why football has been uncertain thus far at jaysee? Its just because there weren't enough fellows turning out for the sport. Well, lots of them protest, what's the use, we wouldn't get to play very much anyway.

For the information of those individuals, there is a purpose. They go to a game and watch the guys play and howl at the top of their lungs when they make a good gain or a goal-line stand, but never consider why they were able to do it. Its not that they're just good, but they have practice, and for the first string to practice against someone, substitutes are necessary. Thus indirectly substitutes are doing their part even though they don't get a chance to play very much.

So all you fellows not doing anything between three and five in the afternoon come on out.

Football men will soon be duplicating the scene shown here of last year's squad sitting up in the Don dressing room in preparation for a big game. Players are to receive uniforms this afternoon at 2 p.m. as preparations were being made today to form the Eastern Conference league.

Football near certainty, so buy student ticket

Since jaysee football is almost a certainty, students who have not yet bought their Associated Student tickets would be wise to do so, in order to obtain free admission to the games.

Tickets are on sale daily in the main office. Other advantages which the student gets with his ticket are as follows:

1. Copies of El Don, campus newspaper.
2. Copy of Del Ano, college yearbook.
3. Copy of Tavern Post, literary magazine.
4. Admission to basketball games.
5. Admission to all other athletic contests.
6. Privileges of membership in campus clubs.
7. Reduction in price to numerous social activities.
8. Free admission to certain other social activities.

Navy to release former Don coach

Former Don coach John Ward, now serving in the United States navy will soon return to the campus, it is being rumored in athletic circles in the city.

One story has Coach Ward due to be released before October 15. No official word however has been received as yet.

FOOTBALL IS TO BE KING AGAIN!

This fact became official yesterday when college authorities definitely gave the go-ahead signal to some 27 anxiously awaiting athletes.

Lt. John Ward, now in the navy, was named head coach and Bill Cook, who will continue this season with his job as co-coach of the Santa Ana Senior high school squad, will serve in an advisory capacity.

Cook announced that until Coach Ward was released that Major Mac Beal, former jaysee star now home on a 60-day furlough, would help him put the squad into condition. Ward is expected the early part of next week.

John H. McCoy, director of the college, expects to attend a meeting today or Monday in Ontario to confer with other jaysee officials about a schedule of games.
